Hewitt's Mill

Looking for a new and interesting place to walk? Come visit Hewitt's Mill Nature Trail. It's located on Route 1 across from the Florida Agricultural Museum and was developed by the museum staff.

The trail is a well-marked loop that goes through land that in the 1780s contained a thriving sawmill with outbuildings and many workers buzzing around. It is now a quiet shaded and beautiful area with a stream running through the many trees and native plants. Benches are placed throughout the area for resting and imagining all the activity that once took place there. The trail is also bicycle friendly.

The trail is accessible at any time, but the road leading into the area is open Wednesday to Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. After walking, you might want to visit the Ag Museum to admire Sparky the newest addition to their Cracker Cattle herd.

New Chairman Chosen

John Seibel, our much respected chairman, tendered his resignation at the June 7 meeting of the CME due to the needs of his business. The members understood the reason and sadly accepted his decision to step down. Barb Kelly was chosen to take over the leadership of the group.

Barb came to Flagler County from the Quad Cities area of Illinois in 2001. She had been chairman there of the Yellowbanks Heritage Association which studied the history of three small towns along the Mississippi River. Locally, she has worked with the Flagler Beach Chamber and wrote for Flagler Magazine where she met John and wrote an article about Heritage Crossroads. She became a member of the CME, a director and treasurer. Congratulations and good wishes to our new chairman.

Florida Scenic Highways ‘in focus’ Summer Workshop

The Summer Workshop was held in St. Augustine June 8-10, 2011. Chairman Barb Kelly attended as representative of Heritage Crossroads. Mariano Berrios, FDOT State Scenic Highways Program Coordinator, welcomed the attendees and introduced St. Johns County Commissioner Cyndi Stevenson and State Representative Bill Proctor. David Nolan, local historian, had many tales to tell of the area. Dana Ste. Claire, Director of the St. Augustine Department of Heritage Tourism and Historic Preservation, spoke of the plans for the City of St. Augustine’s 450th birthday celebration. Many informative workshops were presented during the two-day meeting, and Barb came away with a host of great ideas.
